Visa label request and payment

Form

1405

What is a visa label?

A visa label is a document placed in your passport that contains information about your visa.

Do I need a visa label?

The Australian Government does not require you to have a visa label in your passport to travel to, enter or remain in Australia. Your visa information is stored by the Department of Immigration and Citizenship (the department) electronically and can be accessed online.

When you check-in to travel to Australia, airline staff will electronically confirm that you have a visa prior to boarding the aircraft.

In Australia you can check your visa information online via the Visa Entitlement Verification Online (VEVO) system. For more information see www.immi.gov.au/visas/about-your-visa.htm

Foreign governments are aware that Australia does not require a visa label. You should check with the relevant government authorities regarding requirements to have a visa label in your passport when you transit through or exit a country. The Australian Government cannot advise on other countries' requirements.

When should you use this form?

Use this form to request and pay for a visa label. You can only request and pay for a visa label if you have a current Australian visa.

How much is the charge for a visa label?

See form 990i Charges, available from the department's website www.immi.gov.au/allforms/pdf/990i.pdf for the current visa label charge.

How to request a visa label

Requests for a visa label can be made at an Australian immigration office in Australia or an Australian Diplomatic Mission using this form.

Service Delivery Partners (SDPs) provide services in some countries. For more detailed information and to check if an SDP is available in your country, check the department's website www.immi.gov.au/contacts/overseas

If you mail this request:

- we strongly advise you make a copy of your passport details page for your records before you mail your passport;
- include the passport that you want labelled;
- include a self-addressed, pre-paid, registered envelope;
- ensure that you have correctly completed this form;
- you will need written authorisation from the visa holder to request a visa label on their behalf if you are not the visa holder, parent or guardian.

Method of payment

In Australia

To make a payment, please pay by credit card, debit card, bank cheque or money order made payable to the Department of Immigration and Citizenship. Debit card and credit card are the preferred methods of payment.

Outside Australia

Before making a payment outside Australia, check with the Australian Diplomatic Mission where you intend to lodge your application for methods of payment, currencies they can accept and to whom the payment should be made. For contact information check the department's website www.immi.gov.au/contacts/overseas

Evidence of previously held visas

You can only request a visa label for your current visa. If you need the department to provide a record of previous visas, then you will need to apply for access to documents under freedom of information (form 424A Request for access to documents or information) or access to your international movement records (form 1359 Request for international movement records).

Roles and responsibilities

The department will:

- place the label into your passport after your visa is granted and the label charge has been paid;
- use the information that you have given in your visa label request to contact you if more information is needed.

You will:

- provide your undamaged valid passport with at least one (1) completely empty page, with the visa label request;
- provide all information required by the department;
- pay the visa label charge;
- provide written authorisation, if applicable;
- provide the departmental receipt if you have already paid for a visa label.
